SPRING TRAINING LOCATIONS

15 teams are based in Florida. Venues are located throughout the state in different cities, though some teams share facilities. This will mean that we will spend a couple of days in different locations in order to see as many teams as possible

Where we base ourselves will depend on the preferred team of the final tour group so we can ensure everyone will see their favourite team at least once.

We will start on the eastern side of the state, where there are 5 teams located close to each other. After a couple of days, we will head across to the west coast of Florida. This will likely include stays in Tampa, Sarasota and/or Fort Myers

The remaining 15 MLB teams are all based in Phoenix, Arizona and the surrounding suburbs. This makes it very easy to be based in one location and head out to the different venues each day without having to change hotels. All venues are located within an hours drive of each other, meaning that it is possible to get to 2 games in the one day, depending on the schedules if there is an afternoon and evening game.

There are a total of 10 different venues in Arizona, with 5 teams having their own individual facilities, with the other 10 teams sharing 5 complexes, each with a main stadium, but separate training and administration for each team

While in Phoenix, we have have multiple vehicles available in order for fans to attend different games, based on their teams of interest.
